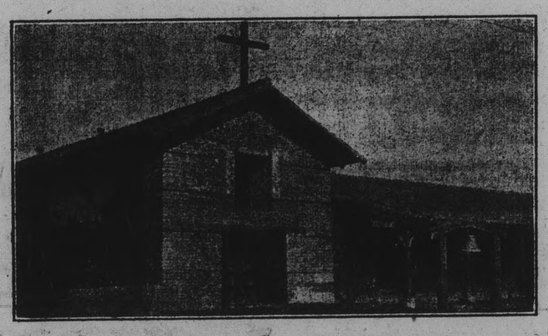
Replica of Sonoma's Mission At Celebration In Sacramento

Local Organizations Contribute $200 to Help the County Build $2500 Exhibit Featuring This Landmark

The promotion organizations of Sonoma county have decided to have the old Mission San Francisco de Solano reproduced as an exhibit at the '49 day celebration in Sacramento. A fiesta day and relics display will be featured and Sonoma county films will be shown in one wing of the building.



Estimated cost of the exhibit is $2500 and the Sonoma Business Men and local Chamber of Commerce have agreed to contribute $200 toward the project. Young ladies from different cities of Sonoma county will participate in the colorful fiesta to be staged around Sonoma's Mission exhibit.

Sacramento was the principal trading point for Sonoma in the pioneer days before the gold rush and it was to Sacramento where General Vallejo was a prisoner of the Bear Flag Party that the General's good wife sent white bread wherein a gold piece, which she thought her husband might need was concealed.

It was a long trip on horse back from Sonoma to Sacramento in the "days of old and the days of gold," but now countless automobiles will go over the modern highway to glimpse historical ground and look upon the Mission and other typical scenes of early days and their hardships.

That many tourists will sooner or later come to Sonoma to see the real Mission after Sacramento's fete is a fact not lost sight of by the alert civic organization working out the plan to advertise the historical importance and attractions of Sonoma County.

TRUSTEES HAD BUSY APRIL SESSION

To Complete More Sewer Extensions and Put In Pumping Plant for Plaza Improvement.

The city trustees met Wednesday, Mayor Bulotti presiding, with all the members present. After the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting and two special sessions the bills were read and ordered paid. The marshal's report was referred to the Finance Committee.

F. M. Burris sent a check for $50 to connect up his property with the sewer, the charge being made to property owners outside of the city limits.

April 10th to 15th was designated as Clean-Up Week and the Mayor issued a proclamation to that effect.

Big Carnival Company to Arrive For May Day Fete

Queen Contest Lively; Miss Rose Arrieola Candidate From Sonoma—Three-Day Celebration Making Fine Progress

The Valley of the Moon May Day celebration which opens Saturday, April 29th, at Boyes Springs, will feature one of the best carnival companies playing on the coast. The big aggregation known as the Groff Carnival Company will arrive with their many concessions including a ferris wheel several days before the celebration. The attractions are clean and high class, personally vouched for by Chief Cause, chairman of the fiesta committee.

The opening night of the Carnival will be ushered in with a grand ball at Boyes Springs Theatre, the Wilson Serenaders playing for the first time this season.

The queen contest is growing more interesting every hour. The nomination for queen of Miss Rose Arrieola, beautiful little Sonoma girl, of the true Spanish type, and rumors that another nominee from Boyes will come out is making interest keen. The committee announces that all nominations will positively close by midnight on April 12th.

The vote to date is as follows:

Claire Farrell, 3600.
Genevieve White, 3220.
Rose Arrieola, 1750.
Flora Benedetto, 1500.
Louise Craib, 1000.

The $200 diamond ring to be given to the winning queen will be on display next week.

The May Pole queen will be nominated by the various schools of Sonoma Valley and when the nominations are all in the names will be put in a box and will be drawn by the Queen of the Carnival. A beautiful gold wrist watch will go to this lucky school girl.

PETALUMA HAS STRINGENT LIQUOR ORDINANCE

Monday evening's meeting of the city council was a very lengthy and important one, for much business was transacted, including the final adoption of two stringent amendments to the prohibition ordinances. One of the amendments defines public places and the other makes a jail term imperative for a conviction for the first offense. Both ordinances insert sharp teeth in the present existing ordinances and were passed last night without discussion, although they were debated at length on the night they were introduced. Mr. Batchelor was absent from the meeting and Mr. McCarger voted no on the amendment relative to the jail term for first offense.—Petaluma Argus.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Drake were here from Santa Rosa Sunday visiting at the Engler home.

MONTHLY REVIEW OF INDUSTRIES

(Compiled by Federal Reserve Board)

Green Fruits.—According to commercial estimates, approximately 2000 cars of apples out of a total crop of nearly 42,000 cars remain to be shipped from the Pacific Northwest. Movement out of local storage has been normal during the past two months and consumption in the large Eastern and Middle Western marketing centers slightly heavier than usual. Carlot shipments of apples from this district during this season, as compared with last season follow:

Carlot shipments to March 4th—

	1922	1921
California	4,619	4,302
Idaho	5,660	2,743
Oregon	6,005	3,018
Utah	714	615
Washington	30,337	18,447
District	47,335	29,125

The apple market strengthened during January and February. Advancing prices drew large amounts of fruit from storage, and some markets suffered from an over supply, but price gains were generally held. At the close of the first week in March, extra fancy Winesap apples were selling at $2.50 per box f. o. b. shipping point, as compared with $2.00-$2.25 per box two months ago, and $2.00 per box a year ago.

Dried Fruits.—An unusually large export movement, supplemented by a steady domestic demand, has reduced to a minimum stocks of dried fruit held in California. Exports of dried fruits from the United States (principally from the Pacific Coast) during 1921 were notably larger than during 1920, as shown by the following figures:

Exports of dried fruits (U. S.)—

	1921 Pounds	1920 Pounds
Apples	19,962,306	8,827,806
Apricots	21,375,149	9,881,256
Peaches	6,893,124	7,924,831
Prunes	117,933,740	75,188,779
Raisins	32,968,664	53,312,126

Two months ago commercial factors estimated the total crop of dried fruit produced in California during 1921 and the stocks then unsold to be as follows:

California dried fruits—

	Produced 1921 Tons	Remaining Stocks, Jan. 1922 Tons
Apples	6,000	100
Apricots	10,000	300
Peaches	21,000	2,400
Prunes	95,000	21,000

Since that time export movement of dried fruits has been accelerated by improvements in exchange rates, and domestic markets have been increasingly active. It is reported that only small scattered holdings of all dried fruits, excepting Muscat raisins, are now available on the Pacific Coast, and that raisins are moving in sufficient volume to reduce the carryover to normal size before the new crop comes on the market. An especially rapid marketing of prunes during the past month is reported.

Small and rapidly diminishing stocks of dried fruit in California hav caused advances in the prices quoted by packers.

Canned Fruits—Estimates received from commercial factors in California indicate that approximately 15 per cent of the 1921 pack of canned fruits in California (8,511,851 cases) remains in the hands of canners at the present time. It will be five months before the bulk of the 1922 pack will come on the market. According to the reports of canners, Yellow Free peaches and lower grade apricots make up the majority of fruit held in the state. Outside of California there is little canned fruit held in the district, with the exception of a small stock of canned apples in the hands of Pacific Northwestern packers.

An unusually heavy export movement of canned fruits from the Pacific Coast (principally to England) has developed during the past two months, favored by the rise in sterling exchange and low ocean rates. An improvement in general trade conditions is reported to have stimulated domestic consumption of canned fruits, and the spot market was strengthened during February by the demand from jobbers who had not anticipated their needs earlier in the season.

Canned fruit prices have advanced as stocks diminished, and are now considerably above 1921 opening prices.

Based on the supposition that California fruit yields will be normal or better than normal, as present conditions indicate, canners opinions as to the size of the forthcoming 1922 pack of canned fruits vary from a minimum estimate of 10,000,000 cases to a maximum of 12,500,000 cases, as compared with a pack of 8,500,000 cases in 1921.

WHY HER WATCH GOES WRONG

Various Causes Given for Undoubted Fact That Woman's Timepiece Is Generally Incorrect.

Punctuality is said to be the virtue of kings, but not of women. The latter will not, however, admit their lack of it. But when a lady has kept a mere man waiting for her an indefinitely long time her excuse, cynics declare, is really at hand: "My watch must be wrong." And, strange to say, this reason given as an excuse, different from other excuses, is almost always valid. The watches of women are much less exact than those of men.

An Englishman, Herbert Duke, who occupied himself with this problem in profound speculations, thinks he has traced it to its source. He has observed that the same watch, when worn by his wife, runs very irregularly, whereas when worn by him it is perfectly correct. "Now, how is it," he asks, "that so many women have such a baleful influence on watches?"

Certainly much is due to the fact that to women the watch is a less necessary tool of life than a beautiful adornment; that they care more for its looking elegant on the wrist than for its being right; that they handle carelessly and inconsiderately this delicate apparatus.

But there must be another more potent cause. It has been observed that the electricity contained in the human body exerts a direct influence on the delicate mechanism of the watch. It may be that the small form of a woman's watch renders it very sensitive to the electro-magnetic influence that emanates from the body.

SNAKES HAVE LARGE 'LITTERS'

Boa Constrictor, in Captivity, Gave Birth to Sixty-Four Living Young —Others Prolific.

The sixteen-foot Trinidad anaconda, or water boa, at the London Zoological gardens, not long ago gave birth to twenty-four young ones. The newborn snakes were twenty-six inches long and about an inch in diameter at the thickest part of the body. In color and marking they resembled the adults—that is, they were of a dark greenish hue with black spots.

That number of young had been exceeded by a seventeen-foot snake at the New York Zoological park, which produced thirty-four young. Still another anaconda has been known to produce thirty-seven at a birth, and a large specimen of boa constrictor gave birth to sixty-four living young. The pythons differ from the boas in that they lay eggs and coil around a heap of them until they hatch. An official of the New York Zoo says that the pythons produce from fifty to a hundred eggs at a time, and a specimen of python reticulatus deposited sixty eggs, about which she coiled, and from which she fought off all intruders, but her efforts proved of no avail, for the eggs were infertile.

Roosevelt a Bird Lover.

Roosevelt's first appearance in the editorial columns of a New York newspaper was probably that in the Evening Post of February 25, 1878. Roosevelt was then a sophomore at Harvard, eighteen years old. The Evening Post devoted a long editorial to the question whether the English sparrow had been a benefit or a pest. It mentioned a recent discussion of the subject at an ornithological club in Cambridge, Mass., saying: "Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., of this city, gave the birds credit for doing some good, but thought that they often ate the buds of fruit trees, and he says that in Egypt they are wasteful devourers of grain." In Roosevelt's "An Autobiography" a good deal is noted of his ornithological interests during these years; these interests, of course, persisted throughout his life.

Diamond Rivers.

The geological formation of the famous diamond region in the state of Bahia, Brazil, shows that at some time in the history of the world the mountains there were thrown up by a hot mass and the carbon in the stone crystalized into gems. It was, in effect, an electric furnace on a gigantic scale. In Brazilian diamond mining natural water courses play an important part. Water and the weather gradually disintegrate the rocks, and the diamonds are washed down into gullies and the beds of rivers, whence they are recovered by the miners. In some places divers are employed to work at the bottom of the rivers, filling sacks with silt that contains the diamonds. The river beds are rich in precious stones which cannot be extracted advantageously, if at all, by the methods now in vogue.

Exercise for Blood Pressure.

Certain vigorous exercises are distinctly beneficial in most cases of too high blood pressure. At a recent meeting of the New York Academy of Medicine Dr. G. Ward Crampton described his favorite treatment of this trouble, which included regular exercise.

In the earlier stages the following program was advised: 1. Morning exercise, 12 minutes; 2. Walk three-quarters of an hour; 3. Vigorous exercise with sweating three times a week; 4. In the open half a day.

In advanced cases the exercise should be milder. Of course, exercise is only a part of the general treatment, and there are many cases in which it should not be given, especially those in which the heart and kidneys are seriously involved.

F. T. DUHRING FAVORS LEASING OF PLAZA

Editor, Index-Tribune,
Sonoma, Cal.

Dear Sir:—

On Monday, April 10, it will be decided whether the voters of Sonoma are behind the business-like, practical patriotic and only feasible plan to change our Plaza from being an eyesore, filled with dried grass for a large part of the year, and rubbish, to a place of joy and beauty to everyone who looks at it; or whether they will listen to those who oppose these plans, those who are moved by a sentimental regard for our historic past and who call up the dead hand of a man, who, were he living, I am sure would be among the leading supporters of the leasing plan.

I cannot understand why the leasing of a very small portion of the Plaza for a very limited period, for a legitimate business, whose buildings and improvements will be attractive so as to furnish means with which to beautify the balance, can be called desecrating or commercializing it.

I believe that all are in favor of beautifying the Plaza, but what plan other than the one suggested will enable us to do so without raising our already high tax rate? Criticism and discussion are good things, but they should be constructive in their nature and help to build up. What have the opponents to offer than will enable the town to change the appearance of the Plaza for the better?

A good illustration of the feelings of those supporting the leasing plan, is that the Sonoma Business Men's Association has donated $100 towards installing an exhibit of the Sonoma Mission at the grand "Days of '49" celebration at Sacramento. Does this show lack of appreciation of our historic past?

Let us all show one regard for the past, our interest in the present and confidence in the future by voting yes and show that we have a love for dear old Sonoma that is real and practical and not merely sentimental and mushy.

F. T. DUHRING.

ALMOST WENT HOME IN A BARREL

Hamil Wagnon, ex-service man, educator and at present a student of pedagogy at the University of California, Berkeley, almost went home in a barrel the other day when someone stole his trousers.

Hamil was taking physical exercises at the gymnasium in the approved athletic costume and when he went to get into his street garb, he found that his trousers were missing. An S. O. S. was sent out to fellow-students and professors, but Hamil, who is 6 feet and 5 inches tall, found that his friends all wore short pants. His wife was waiting dinner for him at their home in San Francsco and the frantic collegian was just about to make the trip across the bay in a barrel or "get by" with the story that he was another Joe Knowles, when a breathless prof appeared with a pair of trousers which actually hit Hamil about the shins. After taking a reef here and there in the rest of 'em the embarrassed Adonis started for home.

The next day Wagnon's trousers and watch and money, taken by mistake, were returned to him.

The hero of this story is the son of Postmaster John Wagnon who used to hold the record for height in the family before Hamil grew up and overtopped him a whole inch.

THEY ARE SHOEING MOVIE STARS IN NAPA

More than a thousand pairs of shoes manufactured from leather turned out by the Sawyer Tanning Company of Napa will be worn by the stars and the extras of the new film, "Robin Hood," which will soon be released by the Douglas Fairbanks company, according to an announcement made by the officials of the Napa Tannery.

In the production of the "Three Musketeers," turned out recently by the Fairbank company, almost every one of the actors wore shoes made to order for the period portrayed out of Sawyer Tannery leather.

MUST BEAR EXPENSE OF DRY DETECTIVES

The city trustees, city treasurer and other officials of Fort Bragg must pay from their own pockets the private detectives from San Francisco hired by them to detect violators of the prohibition law.

The Superior Court has ruled that the city officials were not entitled to use municipal funds for that purpose, and has ordered them to pay bills amounting to over $1000. The decision was handed down in a case brought by a taxpayer. The work of the detectives resulted in the conviction of several persons.

Albert Tietjen of San Francisco has been enjoying a vacation at the Gordenker ranch above Glen Ellen. He had a pleasant outing barring an attack by a swarm of honey bees on the place, and was all swelled up over the experience.

One Critic Put Right

"THEY seem to entertain funny ideas down at Sonoma over the matter of commercializing their Plaza. Just now they are circulating a petition to have the matter left to the voters. It is funny that they can bond themselves for fine school buildings and for a lot of street improvements but they can't afford to spend $100 a month to keep their Plaza from being anything but a weed patch. Now the heirs of General Vallejo promise a court battle if they turn the Plaza over to business interests for hire. Those lawyers who are willing to be quoted say that the Plaza cannot be leased for commercial uses, else it will revert to the original owners. The old Mission down there has been in a sad state of disuse until the State appropriated funds for its restoration. The Sonomaites don't seem to appreciate the landmarks within their midst but seem to want outsiders to keep them in condition for them. And the Index-Tribune is encouraging that attitude, when it isn't harping on the old fiddle about prohibition."—Healdsburg Enterprise.

The phrenologist never lived who could produce a bump of knowledge from the realm of his experience equal to that of a Healdsburg Enterprise scribe. Witness his brilliant remarks that Sonoma does not appreciate its landmarks, but wants outsiders to keep them up. This itinerant pen-pusher probably does not know to what extent Sonoma has tried to keep its landmark, the Plaza, in good order, and how much thought, time and money the women alone of the community have spent in trying to devise ways and means to improve the all too generous gift General Vallejo bestowed on us.

There has been plain misunderstanding of Sonoma's attitude on the service station expedient by outsiders. First of all, critics should know that there are eight acres of ground in the Plaza, that the City is bonded to the limit of indebtedness and therefore is powerless to be of financial assistance in providing ways and means of laying out a park and providing for its upkeep. We have been seventy years getting it in the shape it is in now and the Healdsburg observer correctly catalogues it as a "weed patch." In the Springtime we almost revel in its greeness, suggestive of lawns, but in the Summer the melancholy days are come and we wonder whether we will hold a foxtail fete to shame those in authority to better its condition or put up a high board fence explanatory of our predicament.

Sonoma felt all too sad when its hallowed old Mission was being used for a hay barn some years ago before it was rescued by the $5000 raised by the San Francisco Examiner but our little community with its limited resources seemed powerless to take over this precious landmark although heartsick and teeming with sentiment as we reflected its romantic place in the history of our City. Since tthe Mission has come under the protecting wing of the State of California, the Sonoma Valley Women's Club has demonstrated community sentiment in a hundred ways and Sacramento officials will attest our interest in this landmark. At the present time an active local committee is working with the State for its betterment.

No, Sonoma cannot be accused of disregard for its landmarks. We love them, every one, even the hallowed spots where adobes have sunk from sight into dust.

As to the Index-Tribune encouraging the oil service station proposition, we have no apologies, unless it be to the learned gentlemen of the legal fraternity for refusing to halt all discussion at the filing of their dissenting opinion. We believe that agitation makes the butter, and for this reason have sought to marshal all public sentiment for Plaza improvement. If it does not come one way, it will another.

We hope we have made the attitude of the community and this nwspaper plain to our Healdsburg friend and in closing want to admonish him not to worry about the Index-Tribune and the old fiddle about prohibition. Just as long as the foolish follow the "dry" piper and are led astray by the seducive strains of the reformer, just so long will the Index-Tribune harp on the truth that temperance, not prohibition, is the panacea for excess.

WE RISE to the defense of Congressman Lea on the intimation by the Petaluma Argus that the poultry people spent "many thousands of dollars for the purpose of securing the performance of service that should have been performed by their representative in Congress." It is true that Petaluma sent men to Washington in the interest of the poultry industry. It is not true that Congressman Lea neglected anything that could possibly be done in behalf of the poultry industry of his district. Messrs. Lawler, Kerrigan and others sent East to lobby for the protection of Petaluma eggs against the Chinese product know that Clarence Lea did everything within his power to help the farmers of his own Sonoma county in the fight against impossible Asiatic competition. While a Republican congressman might be more efficient under the present administration, Mr. Lea cannot be attacked on the score intimated in the Petaluma paper. It is an ungrateful and misleading deprecation.

The Coming Convention An Opportunity

SONOMA VALLEY is to be congratulated on having won the Redmen's Convention which will bring 300 or more visitors here during July for several days. Not only will their coming stimulate local business and stir up our valley to look its best, but every one of the visitors will gain first-hand information of Sonoma and its possibilities and spread abroad our advantages as a home and vacation land.

The local Redmen and the sister lodge can be depended upon for genuine hospitality and entertainment for the delegates and in their effort to make a lasting impression on the visitors should have the co-operation of everyone in the valley. The memory of the visit to Sonoma Valley will mean everything to this locality and it is up to all of us to see that the delegates go away ardent boosters for the Valley of the Moon. Sonoma has never failed when called on to act the hostess and we feel that with the opportunity afforded by the convention, the community will achieve a new record.

Refuse To Put Up For Consolidated School

FOR the second time the people of the Dunbar consolidated district, in the upper part of Sonoma Valley, have voted down bonds intended for the purchase of property and the erection of a consolidated school building. It is evident that they are not yet willing to abandon the little school houses which each neighborhood has cherished these many years. It is rather incongruous that the vote for trustees went to men pledged to the consolidation idea, but the candidates were elected on their personal popularity and following, rather than on their avowed approval of consolidation.

The time does not yet seem ripe for consolidation and it is a question if in attaining the higher educational and scientific advantages possible in the new type of bigger schools we do not sacrifice considerable also. Pride in our immediate environment is stimulated by the neighborhood school and there is no reason why its appearance and appointments should not be thoroughly standardized and up-to-date. It perhaps cannot measure up in educational preparation and training, but there is the peace of minds of mothers to consider, and the old sentiment about "the little red school house" to overcome and many kindred reasons why we cannot hurry the campaign for the consolidated school.

Barring the cost, which is considerable, of trying to put the community on a consolidated educational basis, through an overnight campaign, the process engenders bitter feeling and stirs up factional discussion which is most unfortunate. The consolidation idea is a matter of education and cannot be satisfactorily achieved without long preparation and earnest propaganda.

The Viewpoint of the Puritan

THE psycho-analysis of professional puritans is of considerable interest these days when so many reformers are disclaiming against dancing, short skirts, low-neck gowns, moving pictures and drinking. To the type of reformer now transcendant, these things spell hell and ruination. To the average person they mean only rhythm, style, beauty, life and good fellowship. The attitude of the puritan is explained by a noted analyist as follows:

"The professional puritan who is constantly disclaiming against vice, exposing powder and rouge, silk stockings and low cut gowns, is with very few exceptions an over-sexed neurotic.

"Instead of taking those people seriously and allowing them to pass upon the morality of our art and literature courts should commit them to the psycho pathic ward of special hospitals to be treated by psychotherapy.

"The puritan being constantly beset by physical cravings, imagines that every individual is likewise affected, and proceeds to protect them from dangers which are dangers for him alone. The puritan should be an object for pity instead of a censor of a nation's morals. Many puritans are morbid but honest. Many are merely shrewd neurotics who, obsessed by a desire for cheap publicity and easy power, set out to persecute their fellow beings in the name of purity. Many of the great apostles of purity would relapse into obscurity if they were suddenly to cease insulting a hundred things which simply spell life, youth and beauty."

THIS seems to be a year of hot elections, from district school to gubernatorial contests. Let the fur fly and may the best candidates win!

SONOMA COUNTY BOY SCOUT COUNCIL FORMED

The Sonoma County Boy Scout Council was organized at the Chamber of Commerce office in Petaluma Monday afternon.

A budget adopted by the county executive board amounts to $8000 for the balance of the year. The quotas apportioned for the towns of the county are as follows: Sebastopol, $1050; Petaluma, $1200; Santa Rosa, $2250; Sonoma, $450; Cloverdale, $375 and Healdsgurg, $675.

An assistant scout executive is to be appointed shortly, whose duty is will be to organize troops in the various districts. The goal set is 1000 memberships or 40 troops.

Petaluma has already raised its portion of the budget and campaigns for funds are to be started in all of the other districts at once.

The following officers were elected at the meeting Monday: President, Dr. Thomas Maclay, Petaluma; vice president, Max Rosenberg, Santa Rosa; treasurer, Charles King, Sebastopol; National Council representative, H. Rosenberg, Healdsburg; Elroy Thomas, county scout executive.

Additional members of the executive board are Judge J. P. Gallagher, Petaluma; R. B. Hunter, chairman of the Sonoma district; Roy Daniels, Santa Rosa; Charles King, Sebastopol; Professor H. R. Bull, Healdsburg; W. J. Peters, Cloverdale.

District commissioners chosen are S. T. Brown, Petaluma; C. C. Champlin, Sonoma; W. W. von Tillow, Santa Rosa; W. S. Borba, Sebastopol; Dr F. J. Kinley, Healdsburg; Dr. W. M. Billings, Cloverdale.

The next meeting is to be held the first Monday in May at Healdsburg.

SANTA ROSA CARRIED BOND ELECTION 27 TO 1

Santa Rosa's $241,000 school bond issue was carried in the election on Tuesday by 3,081 to 113.

This is believed to be the largest majority ever accorded any issue in Sonoma county, and speaks eloquently of the overwhelming sentiment for new schools.

The figures show that only a trifle more than 3.5 per cent of the voters registered themselves against the school bonds. In other words, the bonds carried by better than 27 to 1.

SONOMA THEATRE PARTIES ATTEND MUSICAL COMEDY

The clever musical comedy "Irene" given at the Cline Theatre, Santa Rosa, last Monday night, was well attended by Sonoma folks. Among those noticed in the audience were Meryl Bish, Ernest Coates, Dr. and Mrs. Butler, James and Ray Gottenberg, E. Bancroft, Miss Fauchier, Charles Taylor, Miss Bancroft, Jean Robin, Miss E. Cooper, Miss Helayne Volquardsen, Miss Chester, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Murphy and others.

The play was excellently staged, the garden scenes and tenement home of Irene O'Dare being most realistic. The musical numbers and plot were above the average road show and Sonomans were well repaid for their trip to the Cline.

WORK PROGRESSING AT THE GOLF LINKS

A new pumping plant and 7000 feet of water pipe arrived at the golf links this week and will be installed at once to beautify the green for the Valley of the Moon Golf and Country Club near Boyes Springs.

Jack Kearney has been engaged as caretaker of the place, formerly the Bigelow home.

Mrs. Cornelius, mother of Emile and Clem Cornelius of this place, is recovering from an operation performed at the Franklin Hospital in San Francisco. Mrs. Cornelius is the wife of one of Sonoma's old time city treasurers. Her son Emile and daughter visited her Sunday at the hospital.

GARAGE MAN FAVORS PLAZA IMPROVEMENT

Garry Bartoli, up-to-date proprietor of the Bear Flag Garage, is heartily in favor of leasing a corner of the Plaza for an oil service station.

"It won't hurt my business," he says, "and it will help the town a lot to have a park instead of a cow pasture. Tourists who stop for oil or gas at the garages take up a lot of time asking all sorts of questions and a garage man's time is valuable if he has a good business. Sonoma as it is now cannot go ahead. It will be no bigger unless it is a whole lot better. The Plaza improvement would mean everything. Now strangers in town point to it and say, 'what is that place,' and you almost have to say a pasture, for it certainly is no park. Yes, I favor the oil station plan to improve the Plaza or else tax the knockers and let them pay for fixing it up.

APRIL FIRST DANCE AT MERVYN BIG SUCCESS

The dance at the Mervyn in Glen Ellen on April Fools' night was a grand success. The largest crowd in years attended the affair and parking space on the hotel grounds was hardly adequate to accommodate the motorists who came from near and far to the dance.

Prize dancing contests resulted in the following awards:

Waltz—Miss Beth Weaver and Emmet Mullen.

Best Lady Dancer—Miss Craib.

Fox Trot—Mr. and Mrs. Tovani, Santa Rosa.

Consolation Prize—Otto Brandt.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck were highly complimented on the success of the evening and will have the six piece Harvard orchestra for their Easter Eve dance on Saturday, April 15th.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION MET ON MONDAY NIGHT

The Sonoma Business Mens Association met Monday evening, President Clewe presiding. E. G. Perkins addressed the membership before the meeting was formally called to order. Mr. Perkins asked for the endorsement of the summer concerts he is arranging for Sonoma.

The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes and communications received by Secretary LaTorres. A letter from G. E. Kennedy of the Standard Oil Company's San Francisco office acknowledged a communication from the Sonoma organization and thanked the Businessmen for their cooperation and good wishes in the establishing of a service station to aid plaza improvement.

A report was received on the plan to place a replica of the old Mission at the '49 days celebration in Sacramento and $100 was donated to aid the project.

A partial delivery of the new booklets, descriptive of Sonoma was received and commended.

Secretary LaTorres called the attention of the association to the necessity for parking regulations and the following committee was named to confer with the city trustees; Messrs R. B. Hunter, Harry Fine and Garry Bartoli.

The North of Bay Counties Association asked for a wire on whether Sonoma had a free auto camp ground. A telegram, answering in the affirmative was authorized.

The Association endorsed the summer out-of-door concerts, requesting Mr. Perkins to fix the hour so that the concerts would be over by 8: p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Engish, who have been residing in town have moved to the Hall Ranch where Mr. Engish has accepted the position as foreman for the owner, Mrs. Robert Carter.

THRIFT WON HER HUSBAND

Legend Tells of Reward That Came to French Girl Through Her Cheese-Paring.

While the expression "cheese-paring" is a recognized equivalent for thrift or economy in the management of household affairs, it is apparent the moment we dissect the term that the saving effected by the paring of a cheese depends entirely upon the manner in which the operation is conducted. If one removes the rind of the cheese carelessly, waste instead of economy results.

According to a French legend, there was a man who was in love with three sisters at the same time. He could not make up his mind which of them he ought to marry. The ability to be a thrifty housewife being the principal requisite of a wife at that time, the man decided to watch the three carefully, and in order to make a test presented each of them with a large cheese.

Two of them removed the rind in such a manner that a considerable portion of the cheese was thrown away, but the youngest pared it with a very sharp knife, and did not waste a scrap. The man decided that she would make the best wife, and they were married.

"HOSPITAL" FOR SICK FISHES

Where Members of the Finny Tribe Are Successfully Treated for Minor Ailments.

At Kremnitz, in Hungaria, there exists a model aquarium, to which a hospital for the fish has been added. Some of the fish are treated in groups, while others, more affected, get their treatment in individual vats.

In this way was treated a salmon suffering from gangrene, and also an unfortunate pike of 18 pounds, on whose fins enormous wens had been found.

A gigantic bream has been freed of a goiter, the origin of which was attributed to the bad quality of water in which he had lived in his youth.

The best operation performed by the fish doctors was unquestionably that upon the air-bladder of a giddy tench.

This is not an aspersion aimed at this tench. The proof is that it had wanted to leap higher than it was able to and thus made extreme efforts, damaged its air-bladder and incurred danger of death. It needed only a cut with the bistoury to give this little madcap back his health and good humor.—New York Tribune.

Legacies Left to Cats.

About a century ago a Frenchman, Pierre Grosley, left £24 a year to his two cats, to be paid as long as either lived; but he was a lawyer, and his will proved valid. Ten or 12 years ago a poor woman in Paris left her property for charity after her cat Bis, a beautiful young Maltese, had been maintained till the end of his natural life. The amount was so small that principal as well as interest would have to be used, and there was some close calculation, based on the average length of feline life, before the legacy was accepted. Had Bis possessed the traditional nine lives, it would assuredly have been declined, as the city would have incurred an obligation, without receiving any benefit. He died advanced in years, but there was still something left.

"Mousepower."

"We have horsepower, water power, candlepower; so why not mousepower?" reasoned a thrifty Scot, and straightway put his mice to work. He selected two promising young mice and set them up in business in a miniature tread mill, where they were to earn their board and keep by the manufacture of sewing silk. For more than a year the mice kept their little factory going on a day and night shift. The ingenious thread mill was so constructed that each mouse was enabled to twist, twine and reel on an average of from 100 to 200 threads a day. Women doing the same work were paid a penny a hank, consequently each mouse netted a saving of six shillings per annum for the owner of the tiny threadmill.

Regrow Lost Parts.

Newts and salamanders and the tadpoles of frogs and toads have great powers of regrowing parts that have been bitten off, but, so far as known, lizards are the only backboned animals that show surrender of parts. Among backboneless animals it often occurs. This peculiarity is found among sea slugs and other mollusca and in many kinds of worms. In the Palolo worm, which burrows in the coral reefs, nearly the whole of the body is broken off at the breeding season, and it bursts in the water, liberating tens of thousands of germ cells, while the head remains in the rock and makes a new body.

Stoves Once Unpopular.

A hundred years ago stoves and fireplaces generally seemed to be the thing that gave decorators of houses the greatest concern.

"The stove," says a German writer, speaking of the house furnishings a hundred years ago, "was quite indispensable in a northern climate, but wherein the whole of antiquity was any reference to be found to a tiled stove? The universal altar had again to be called into service. At Worlitz, for instnce, the stove was named the altar of winter, or else was converted into some kind of monument. Isabey hid the stove in his house in Paris under the figure of Minerva."

"PUT UP OR SHUT UP"

(Communicated)

Editor, Sonoma Index-Tribune:

I have been reading articles written by individuals and different papers concerning the proposed oil station lease for Sonoma's Plaza wherein the trustees are criticized for daring to think of accepting $100 per month to beautify our park. I would like to ask the "Grizzly Bear" and the Fresno paper and the Oakland Tribune and some of the illustrious critics of the oil station plan to send some "sentimental" money, checks or any kind of mazuma to the Board of City Trustees to take the place of the $100 a month they want us to turn down—then they might talk, but meanwhile I advise them to "put up or shut up." We who have to look on our Plaza grown up to weeds and foxtails in the good old summer time and hear the knocks of everybody going through town, "Why don't you fix up your Plaza, it's a disgrace," do not feel like the long distance critics or like the silurian mossbacks who enjoy a poor, old, rundown looking town. The progressive citizen and all those who are going to the polls Monday to vote yes have a right to say put up or shut up, for everyone of us will do our share if necessary but we do not feel that it is necessary when an oil company famous for its beautiful service stations is willing to pay $100 per month to help us make our Plaza improvements. Those opposed to it, I don't believe, would put up a nickel. If I am wrong, I invite them to "come through."

Signed,

L. QUARTAROLI.

SONOMA MISSION REPLICA FOR "DAYS OF '49" SHOW

It was definitely decided at the conference of secretaries of the commrcial bodies of the county held in the Sonoma county board of trade rooms Wednesday afternoon of last week to maintain an exhibit at the Days of '49 at Sacramento in May. It is planned to erect a replica of the Sonoma mission, in which the county films will be shown daily.

It will be necessary to raise a fund of $2500 for this work, and the various representatives present pledged themselves to see that the finances are forthcoming. Messrs. James G. Stafford, H. W. Kerrigan and R. B. Leopold were appointed a committee to visit Sacramento and look over the grounds and make the necessary arrangements for the space required.

Those present at the meeting Wednesday were President C. E. Humbrt, Director C. O. Dunbar and Secretary H. J. Waters of the board of trade; J. G. Stafford, Santa Rosa; H. W. Kerrigan, Petaluma; R. B. Leopold, Sebastopol; Mrs. J. H. Murray, Sonoma; J. M. Alexander, Healdsburg and P. S. Wilson, Cloverdale.—Santa Rosa Press Democrat.

Dr. Russell Morris of Petaluma, was operated on for tonsil trouble this week in San Farncisco and suffered a hemorrhage following the operation. He was in the hospital for several days.

PRETTY SHRUB ALMOST GONE

Mountain Laurel, Once Plentiful Everywhere, Has Been Destroyed Through Public Carelessness.

Many years ago, when the American Indians were the only inhabitants of the United States, the mountainsides in springtime were almost white with the blossoms of claymoun, the Indian name for mountain laurel.

Nowadays the laurel is not so plentiful. People have broken down too many plants and pulled up too many others by the roots. Still you may find some of these low, scraggly bushes if you are familiar with the countryside. For in nearly every hilly part of the states, from Maine to Ohio, from Florida to Canada, a few at least of these attractive shrubs are growing.

The roots of these particular plants reach out for surprisingly long distances, seeming to enjoy prowling about in the loose soil of the mountainsides. Yet, with all the roving tendencies of the roots, the patches of plants do not spread, but remain about the same size from year to year. Calico-bush is an old-fashioned name for mountain laurel, a name that some country people think is the only name. Spoonwood is another queer name by which you may hear this same plant called.

WAS DEITY OF ANCIENT EGYPT

Amen One of the Chief Gods—In Hebrew Word Signifies Strength or Trustworthiness.

A wealth of significance is stored up in the word "Amen."

Amen was one of the oldest deities of the Ancient Egyptians, and one of their chief gods. His emblem was a man wearing a red crown, surmounted by the disk of the sun, in token of his dominion over both the earth and the heavens.

His name meant "hidden" or "concealed," while one of his titles was "Amen-ka-mut-f," the husband of his mother, thus signifying that the deity in question was at the time the oldest and the youngest of created beings.

In the Hebrew language "Amen" signifies strength or trustworthiness—the "God of Truth," referred to in Isaiah being literally the "God of Amen." In using the word at the end of our creeds and prayers, therefore, we not only exclaim "So be it!"—which is the generally accepted meaning of the term—but affirm the truth of what has been recited.

Sunbeams Destroy Bacteria.

Experiments in various quarters have shown that sunbeams are able to destroy bacteria in water at a depth of at least twenty inches beneath the surface. One might almost liken the rays of light in such a case to javelins and arrows piercing an enemy, for it has been found that the destructive action is greatly diminished if only the perpendicular sunbeams fall upon the water.

The slaughter of the bacteria is by far the greatest when both perpendicular and oblique rays enter the water uninterrupted. Like a ship in action, the sun is most powerful when it can rake the enemy with a cross-fire. And it has to shoot its tiny arrows of light a long way—almost 93,000,000 miles. But, fortunately for us, they get here and they are effective.

Mice as Travelers.

When Robert Burns called a mouse a "wee, sleekit, cow'rin', tim'rous beastie," he was probably not aware that a mouse isn't the frail, helpless little creature it looks to be. According to the discovery of the late David Hutton, of Dumfermline, Scotland, the average mouse travels about ten miles a day. Some mice make real speed records, and cover even more ground than this in 24 hours, Mr. Hutton found. There was one mouse in particular, in his collection, that smashed all the long-distance records in mousedom by running 365 miles in 35 days. And all this marathon mouse required to keep him going was a half-penny worth of oatmeal during the entire period.

Independence.

"Should a physician give his wealthy patients harmless powders when they insist on being treated, although he knows they are quite well, or should he tell them frankly there is nothing the matter with them?" asked the young doctor.

"That depends on the financial status of the physician," said the elderly doctor. "If he has an income sufficient for his needs and is not dependent on his practice for a living he should not only tell such patients there is nothing the matter with them, but if he feels in a facetious mood he can even afford to pooh-pooh their most cherished symptoms."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Pets Provided For by Will.

Cat legatees are not peculiar to France. England has had them, and in our own country only a few years ago died the second of two cats, Blackie and Pinkie, that belonged to Benjamin F. Dilley of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Mr. Dilley, at his death, left the income of $40,000 to provide for them as long as they should live, appointed a woman to care for them, and bequeathed her a pension till her death, after which the estate was to be divided, most of it going to charities. Pinkie died first, Blackie followed her two years later at the age of sixteen, which is four years beyond the average life of a cat.

NAZIMOVA "CAMILLE" COMING TO DON THEATRE

"Camille," the Nazimova production coming to the Don Theatre on Tuesday for a run of three nights is a modernized version of the famed Dumas play, adapted by June Mathis, who made the continuity for Rex Ingram's two productions for Metro, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Conquering Power."

The story is of Armand Duval, the young Parisian law student, who loves Marguerite Gautier, called Camille, a notorious Parisian woman. Together they leave the city and decide to live for each other, he sacrificing his career and she abandoning her mode of life. The climax comes with Camille leaving Armand so that he might continue his career, and her death in neglect and poverty.

In no other play have so many famous actresses appeared in the stellar role as in "Camille." Among the list of celebrities who have won fame by their interpretations of this story of love and sacrifice by Alexander Dumas, the younger, are Sarah Bernhardt, Eleanor Duse, Clara Morris, Madame Modjeska, Laura Keane, Matilda Heron, Jean Margaret Davenport-Landa, Olga Nethersole and Ethel Barrymore.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS REFUSE PERMIT

The railroad commissioners have refused to permit the capitalization of good will and automobile operative right of the G. S. Jones Co., to issue $10,000 stock.

The request was made for the development of an automobile route between Petaluma and Boyes Springs. The commissioners authorized the issue of $6000 of stock.

H. Stanley Benedict, who wrote the opinion pointed out that the operative right was granted without the payment of any fee and that therefore no stock should be permitted to be issued for it by the corporation. The company had placed a valuation of $10,000 upon it and they also claimed $3000 as the value of the good will of a garage business included in the sale. As to the latter item the decision says "Aside from the question of the propriety of permitting a public utility to issue stock to acquire the good will of a non-public utility enterprise, I do not consider that applicant herein has made an adequate showing justifying the issuance of stock."

BELL'S REPLY TO THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

California Anti-Saloon League:

Under date of March 20, you broadcasted a leaflet containing an unjust, unfair and untrue statement respecting my professional relations. You charge that I am "chief counsel for the liquor interests." The slightest investigation upon your part would have disclosed the falsity of the accusation. Those who assume to champion a great moral reform ought to give some recognition to Truth, as well as to the commandment against bearing false witness.

The facts, as I relate them, can be verified by your attorney, Mr. J. E. Pembertin, from court records and my private books and papers. In fight ing war time prohibition, I represented the wine interests, and also certain brewery concerns in the latters' fight for 2 3-4 per cent beer. The brewers' contention was sustained by the United States Supreme Court. Since national prohibition went into effect, the sum total of my professional activities has consisted of defending Dillon, who was charged with transporting wine unlawfully, for the purpose of testing certain features of the eighteenth amendment; the prosecution for four cases for druggists and physicians to determine the validity of regulations restricting the with drawal and distribution of wines for medicinal purposes; and the defense of the right of the Holy Rosikrucian Church to use sacramental wines under a church constitution adopted in 1915, five years before national prohibition became effective. Aside from these cases, for which I have been paid the munificent sum of $100, I have accepted no employment from any person, firm or corporation charged with a violation of that Act, except in the case of Dillon above referred to. In a way, I still represent the wine interests, but my services are gratuitous.

Your malicious insinuation that I became a Republican in the hope of securing political favors for the Holy Rosikrucian Church is not only an insult to my professional and political integrity, but an insult to the Republican party If you hope to diminish or impair my opposition to the Wright Bill, or the Volstead Act, by intimidation or slander, please be advised at once and for all that I shall continue to wage war on both of these measures in every possible legitimate way. Fortunately, for my peace of mind, I banished long ago the specter of fear from my personal, professional and political activities. Your blind and unreasoning support of drastic prohibition legislation has cursed this country with a nationwide system of bootlegging that is both robbing and poisoning the American people, and making the bootlegger your best and most effective ally.

A sense of justice should prompt you to print and distribute this letter to the newspapers to whom you sent your recent indictment, and I expect you to do this, with such explanatory remarks as you may deem necessary.

Respectfully yours,

THEODORE A. BELL.

VINEBURG NEWS

Miss May Bosch of San Francisco was the guest of her mother, Mrs. P. Bosch on Sunday last.

Frederick Batto was entertained by San Francisco friends several days last week and reports a fine time.

We have had some pleasant days this past week and some unpleasant ones. The weather seems to work on a 50-50 basis.

Mr. and Mrs. August Figone and son paid a visit to the John Batto residence on Thursday while on their way from Calistoga to San Francisco.

The many friends of Cedric Cutter, one of Vineburg's native sons, who has been ill with the flu will be glad to hear that he is now convalescent, as are his children, who have also been ill.

John Batto, president of John Batto & Sons, Inc., and one of Sonoma Valley's pioneer dried fruit and grain merchants, is at present the guest of Mr. and Mrs. August Figone in San Francisco.

Messrs. Fred Batto and son, Herbert, accompanied by Henry Lutgens of Sonoma and Joe Andrieux of The Summit, Placer Co., returned from thesnowclad Sierras on Sunday after a weeks visit. A VOTER'S VIEWS

(Communicated)

Editor, Index Tribune:

The "desecration" note which has come out of this Plaza controversy does not harmonize nor seem consistent with events of the past which went by unchallenged. For instance, the Archbishop, years ago, sold the old Mission property to a man who was not even of the Christian faith and in that Mission's sacred precincts sleep beloved pioneers—yet not a voice was raised against this commercialization. Sentiment was strangely fanned into opposition on the oil station proposition by negative propagandists, and outsiders who know little of Sonoma's problem and have never hitherto interested themselves in our affairs, break into print.

We will break no faith with anyone by voting yes at Monday's election, and recent regard for our landmarks has too well been demonstrated to be questioned.
